Overview

Dr. Davis Yawney is a medical doctor who works at the Taber Clinic and instigated this scholarship as he is committed to supporting rural youth as they pursue their health sciences career in hopes that applicants return to rural Alberta. Included in the award is the possibility that Dr. Yawney may be able to arrange job-shadowing and practicum placement opportunities for the student with a professional working in their field of interest at The Taber Clinic.

Dr. Davis Yawney Bio: Davis was born and raised in Raymond, studied biochemistry at the UofL and medicine at the UofC. Davis did his residencies in family medicine at the UofC and enhanced surgical skills at the UofS. He's practiced rural medicine in Taber including cradle to grave care for more than 1500 patients as well as ER, hospital, obstetrical, and surgical assisting work. He has been a full-time clinical preceptor for medical students for 5 years and committed to rural obstetrical care and rural medical education.
